

Espen Sjøvoll is a director at the National Archives of Norway and has a Master's degree in economics. His department at the National Archives of Norway is responsible for document management and records keeping in the Norwegian public sector and acquisition of privately-owned archives. Responsibilities include inspection of records keeping in public sector organisations, Norwegian Archival standard (NOARK), appraisal of public and private sector archives, and finally the acquisition of analogue and digital archives.

He was a member of the commission writing a proposal for a new archival legislation for Norway.

Since November 2019 Espen has been responsible for the Archiving by Design working group established by the European Archives Group (EAG).
